Discover the new Angelus U10 Tourbillon Lumière, premiering at Baselworld 2015, and learn about the rich history of Angelus by exploring www.angelus-watches.com

Brothers Albert and Gustav Stolz founded Angelus in 1891 in Le Locle, Switzerland, just a stone's throw from the brand's current manufacture. Angelus' legacy of pioneering movements and innovative timepieces has been safeguarded by the 2015 re-launch of the brand under passionate new owners, and the presentation of the first new Angelus timepiece in nearly half a century: the U10 Tourbillon Lumière.

The new Angelus website leads visitors from the Home page, to the History page of Angelus, which includes a plethora of international awards and world firsts. These include: the Chronodato (1942), which was the first series wristwatch chronograph with calendar. The Chrono-Datoluxe (1948) featured the very first big date in a chronograph wristwatch; it was also the first series chronograph wristwatch with a digital calendar – years before such a display became a standard in watchmaking. The Datalarm (1956) was the first wristwatch ever featuring both alarm and date function, while the cult timepiece the Tinkler (1958) was both the first automatic repeater wristwatch and also the first fully waterproof repeater wristwatch. An animated timeline illustrates the history with historical images and documents.
